This research and evaluation report describes the history, context, and physical characteristics of the property at 55 Mill Street East in Halton Hills, Ontario (Figure 1 and Figure 2). The report includes an evaluation of the property's cultural heritage value as prescribed by the Ontario Heritage Act.

2.1 Historical Background

Lot 21, Block 4 in Acton was sold by the family of Rufus Adams to Charles Tubby in 1865, and the following year to Charles Symon. In 1866, Charles Symon sold the property to Thomas Marshall who owned it for almost 10 years, and in 1875, Marshall sold the property to William Heslop (W.H.) Storey.

William Heslop Storey's Residence

W.H. Storey came to Acton around 1866 to open a saddlery and harness business, originally establishing his store on Mill Street. In 1868, Storey began making sheepskin mitts and buckskin gloves.

In 1875, Storey's company moved into his new factory on Bower Avenue, the Canada Glove Works, built at a cost of $14,000. The Canada Glove Works employed hundreds of people in the area and became known throughout Canada. Storey was instrumental in the incorporation of the village of Acton in 1873 and served as Acton's first Reeve. He also served as a councillor for 18 years and was Warden of Halton County, Justice of the Peace, chair of the school board, director of several insurance companies, president of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association, and long-standing member of the Methodist church. John McDonald identifies Storey in Halton Sketches as "... a great industrial pioneer and public-spirited citizen of early Acton" (p.82).

In 1879, Sunderland Villa was constructed for Storey on Mill Street, who named the building for his home country in England. The Acton Free Press reported that the Storey family had moved into their residence by September 1880. The carriage house for the home was located at 7 John Street. Sunderland Villa was heated by steam piped underground from the factory to the home and was the first residence to be heated by steam in Acton.

W.H. Storey died on March 7, 1898, with over 1100 people attending his funeral. In 1924, W.H. Storey and glove manufacturer H.T. Arnold's glove firms amalgamated. Later, local H.T. Arnold and Sons took over the Bower Avenue factory and ran the business until it was closed following World War II.

Great War Veterans Association – Community House

In 1920, the property was sold to the Trustees of the Acton Branch of the Great War Veterans Association. The Acton Free Press reported in the March 4, 1920 issue that the fences surrounding the property would be removed and that the grounds would become a public park. In 1922, the house, known as “The Great War Veterans Association Community House”, was purchased by its proprietor Daniel Ritchie who had managed it for the last few years. In January 1923, the Acton Free Press identified the existing house as “The Community House” and noted that it would be renamed the “Sunderland” after its original name. By August of that year, an advertisement in the Acton Free Press identified the property as The Sunderland House, with proprietor D.V. Ritchie. The home was used as a boarding house and hotel to house war veterans and was renovated in 1928, however later the property became derelict during the Great Depression.

Funeral Home

In 1860, John Speight had opened an undertaking business in Acton, the first in the community, on Willow Street. In 1881, upon Speight's death, his son Joseph took over the business.

William Johnstone (1862-1930) (Figure 16) relocated from Freelon to Acton with his wife Mabel to establish his furniture and funeral home. Johnstone founded a funeral home known as "Johnstone & Company" in 1885, and in 1903 purchased Joseph Speight's undertaking business. In March 1926, Victor Rumley (1901-1963) (Figure 17) married William's daughter, Alice Mae Johnstone. Johnstone soon partnered with his son-in-law, who would later take over the business from Johnstone.

In 1925, the Acton Free Press reported that businessman Victor Rumley's building, including his confectionery and restaurant business, had been sold to Mr. Tony Scynuk. In 1937, Rumley had purchased the subject property from John Clarke and moved his undertaking business from down the street to 55 Mill Street East. The furniture store was then sold to Elma Braida and Ray West in 1948.

In 1942, the Acton Free Press reported that the exterior of the Johnstone & Rumley Funeral Home was being redecorated. In 1943, Rumley paved the circular driveway and added new sidewalks to the building's entrance.

In October 1953, Rumley announced that Mr. Bruce Shoemaker would be associated with the funeral home as a licensed embalmer. In November 1954, it was announced that Shoemaker would be succeeding Rumley as owner of the Rumley Funeral Home following Rumley's retirement in October of that year. In 1958, the name was changed from "Rumley Funeral Home" to "Rumley Shoemaker Funeral Home". The Shoemakers purchased the property from Victor and Alice Rumley in 1954.

In 1976, additions to the Sunderland Villa were constructed by the Shoemakers.

In 1999, the Shoemaker Funeral Home was purchased by Arbor Funeral Services, owned by Bob and Margaret MacKinnon. At this time, the MacKinnon's renovated the second floor of the building for their own residence. In 2015, Bob MacKinnon retired, and the funeral home was purchased by its current owners. The property is currently owned by MacKinnon Family Funeral Home Inc. and numbered company 2445004 Ontario Limited and continues to operate as a funeral home.

2.2 Property & Architectural Description

The property is located at 55 Mill Street East along the north side of the roadway in Halton Hills and contains a two-and-a-half storey brick residential building (Figure 31 and Figure 32). The property is legally known as PT LT 21, BLK 4, PL 31, ALSO SHOWN ON PL 1098; PT LT 22, BLK 4, PL 31, AS IN 835185 ALSO SHOWN ON PL 1098; "T/W 242792" HALTON HILLS "AMENDED MAR 9 '99 & OCT 13/99 J. MENARD" SUBJECT TO AN EASEMENT IN GROSS OVER PT 2 20R19598 AS IN HR1160481.

The existing residential form building on the subject property is set back from Mill Street East in Acton, with a large, paved driveway directly in front of the house, separated from the public right of way by an evergreen hedge extending along the southeast and northeast lot lines. Mature trees are extant along the northeast lot line, and a single driveway extends along the rear (northwest) lot line behind the existing building from John Street North. The building is irregularly shaped, with an asymmetrical front elevation partially obscured by a one-storey flat-roofed addition with wheelchair ramp. Garden beds extend along the southeast elevation (Figure 33 and Figure 34)

The front elevation (Figure 35 and Figure 36) features a painted brick exterior and is divided into three irregular bays. The bay furthest to the southeast is two-and-a-half storeys. At the first storey, a one-storey projecting bay with mansard-style roof is extant, containing three segmentally arched window openings with painted hood moulds above a stone course wrapping the projecting bay. The existing windows appear to be original wood, two-over-two hung windows. Above the first storey, a pair of round-arched window openings are located beneath a shallow, bracketed projecting roof, with a singular stone sill below and rounded stone hood moulds above the openings. Above the shallow projecting roof is a circular window with decorative surround. The gable peak features intricate bargeboard/vergeboard beneath the eaves. The corners of the projecting bay feature brick quoining which has been painted a contrasting colour to the main façade.

The first storey of the westernmost bay on the front elevation is obscured by the flat-roofed, mid-20th century addition, with concrete wheelchair ramp extending along the front of the addition, connecting with the concrete steps to the main entrance of the building (Figure 39). The contemporary addition features a double door entry with large flat-headed window opening on the southeast elevation. At the second storey (Figure 40), the window and roof configuration on the easternmost bay is echoed with a single window opening beneath a circular window and gable peak with bargeboard and wooden architectural detailing. Painted brick quoining continues at the southwest corner of this elevation.

The original southwest elevation along John Street North (Figure 41) is also obscured by the flat-roofed addition which is met further to the rear by a flat-roofed, three-bay garage. At the second storey, the asymmetrical elevation features two single window openings beneath the bracketed eaves with two-over-two windows above the one-storey addition. To the rear of the elevation, a pair of single window openings is centered beneath the decorative gable peak which features similar details to that of the front elevation. A wooden deck extends from these window openings, one of which has been modified into a door opening. A tall brick chimney with contemporary stack is visible beyond the side elevation. The rear (northwest) elevation of the building (Figure 42) is mostly obscured by the one storey garage addition and features the unpainted brick chimney and gable-roofed feature towards the northwest corner of the building.

2.3 Architectural Style & Comparative Analysis

Several styles of homes were built throughout Ontario during the Victorian Era from the mid-nineteenth to early twentieth centuries. Sunderland Villa, a Victorian era building constructed c.1879, has been described in past analysis as both an example of the Second Empire Style as well as the Queen Anne Style. However, although the home expresses some architectural features consistent with Second Empire residential buildings in Ontario from this period (including its brick construction, dormers of various shapes and sizes, windows with enriched surrounds and mouldings, and dichromatic brick quoining typical at the corners), the defining feature of a Second Empire residence is typically a mansard style roof. As such Sunderland Villa is better defined as constructed in the Queen Anne Revival style.

The Queen Anne style was built primarily between 1870-1880 to 1910 and was popular amongst the wealthy upper middle classes as buildings in this style are designed to be impressive. Shannon Kyles notes in Ontario Architecture that the inspiration of Queen Anne Revival architecture was from medieval principles of neighbourhoods and towns that focused on craftsmanship and community. The style featured a variety of decorative elements and forms, with complex and variable aesthetics that served to express the success of those who built the homes, often featuring characteristics including asymmetrical facades, steeply pitched and irregular rooflines, front-facing gables, overhanging eaves, towers with turrets in the corners, unusual windows, detailed textures, and bright colours. Sunderland Villa features many of these architectural characteristics, and although the existing brick has been painted, the decorative wooden detailing and bargeboard as well as the stone quoining, window surrounds and details remain legible. Additionally, while the southwest and southeast street-facing elevations of Sunderland Villa are quite elaborate, the northwest and northeast elevations are much plainer, a characteristic noted by Kyles as typical of many Queen Anne Revival buildings.

Within Acton, 11 additional properties¹ are identified on the Town's Heritage Register as examples of the Queen Anne Revival style (some represented in Figure 44 through Figure 46 below). However, none are of a similar scale or level of detail as extant within Sunderland Villa at 55 Mill Street East and could be better described as vernacular buildings with Queen Anne Revival influences, making the property a unique example of a building of this scale and level of architectural detailing within the community of Acton.

3.0 Description of Heritage Attributes and Evaluation Checklist

The following evaluation checklist applies to Ontario Regulation 9/06 made under the Ontario Heritage Act: Criteria for Determining Cultural Heritage Value or Interest. The criteria are prescribed for municipal designation of Heritage Properties under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act. The evaluation tables utilize an 'X' to signify applicable criteria and 'N/A' to signify criteria that are not applicable for this property.

Design or Physical Value
Is rare, unique, representative, or early example of a style, type, expression, material, or construction method	X
Displays a high degree of craftsmanship or artistic merit	X
Demonstrates a high degree of technical or scientific achievement	X

The property at 55 Mill Street East has physical and design value as a unique example within Acton and the Town of Halton Hills of an elaborate Queen Anne Revival style residential building within the core of the Acton community. Sunderland Villa, although modified with a one-storey addition and garage addition to the side and rear, remains an excellent example of the style, with architectural detailing including its asymmetrical facade, steeply pitched and irregular roofline, front-facing gables, overhanging eaves, the central turret, unusual windows, and significant decorative wooden detailing beneath and eaves and throughout the building. Sunderland Villa was also the first residence in Acton to be heated by steam as owner W.H. Storey had steam piped from the glove factory on Bower Street to heat his own residence. The craftsmanship within the architectural detailing and building design is exemplary and has been well-preserved through many ownership changes and through its adaptive re-use from residential building to funeral home. Sunderland Villa is an excellent and unique example of a Queen Anne Revival manor in Halton Hills, representative of the success and prosperity of one of Acton's most influential residents in the late-nineteenth century.

Historical or Associative Value
Has direct associations with a theme, event, belief, person, activity, organization, or institution that is significant to a community.	X
Yields, or has potential to yield, information that contributes to an understanding of a community or culture	N/A
Demonstrates or reflects the work or ideas of an architect, artist, builder, designer, or theorist who is significant to a community	X

The property at 55 Mill Street East has historical and associative value due to its associations with William Heslop Storey, a notable figure in the mid-to-late-nineteenth century in Acton with significant ties to the community. Storey established the Canada Glove Works on Bower Avenue, employing hundreds of local individuals and was known throughout Canada. Storey was instrumental in the incorporation of the village of Acton in 1873 and served as Acton's first Reeve. He also served as a councillor for 18 years and was Warden of Halton County, Justice of the Peace, chairperson of the school board, director of several insurance companies, president of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association, and long-standing member of the Methodist church. Sunderland Villa, an extravagantly designed Queen

Anne Revival residence, was the first home in Acton to be heated with steam and demonstrates Storey’s entrepreneurial status and status within the community as one of the most important employers of that time.

Sunderland Villa has also been historically associated with the Great War Veterans Association as it was used as a boarding house and hotel for veterans following World War One in the early twentieth century.

The property has long been associated with the funeral home industry in Acton, serving as a funeral home since 1937. Notable funeral home directors associated with the property include Victor and Alice Rumley, Bruce and Rhoda Shoemaker, and Bob and Margaret Mackinnon.

Contextual Value
Is important in defining, maintaining, or supporting the character of an area	X
Is physically, functionally, visually, or historically linked to its surroundings	X
Is a landmark	X

The property at 55 Mill Street East has contextual value as a landmark along Mill Street East within the community of Acton. Although set back from Mill Street East, the position of Sunderland Villa beyond the circular drive extending from the right-of-way provides a significant vantage-point for passersby to view the extensive detailing and fine craftsmanship still extant within the exterior of the existing building. Sunderland Villa, in its original location in the heart of Acton, is physically, visually, and historically linked to its surrounding, and continues functionally as a funeral home as it has since 1937 in the community. Sunderland Villa is important in defining and maintaining the character of the area and represents the late-nineteenth century prosperity of businessman and local William Heslop Storey within the community.

4.0 Summary
