Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The Harrison-Wolfe House at 93 Bower Street has physical and design value as a representative example of Edwardian Classical residential architecture due its simple designs and detailing, smooth surfaces, flatheaded windows with plain sills and lintels, simplified massing, a generous front porch (although now enclosed), and simplified roof with dormer and simple brick chimney. The building has maintained significant integrity since its construction in the early twentieth century and is compatible with buildings of a similar vintage along Bower Street, including the Syndicate Housing adjacent to the southwest.

The Harrison-Wolfe House has historical and associative value due to its associations with its early owners through to the mid-twentieth century. The existing home was built on land previously owned by the Honourable D. Henderson by local tradesperson W.D. Anderson for his family. Anderson undertook work throughout the Acton community as a teamster, plasterer, builder, tanner, and stonemason. The property was later owned by Cecil Watson Hartley Harrison, who worked as an auto supplies distributor and was involved with the local United Church, served as YMCA Director, was involved with the local Lodge, served as a Trustee of the School Board, on Council and as Reeve, and served on the Chamber of Commerce and the Acton Fall Fair Board. Cecil’s wife Florence Harrison was also very involved in the community, serving on the Welfare Board, and led the Girl Guides and other activities.

In 1950, the property was owned by J. Wesley Wolfe, a leather industry executive who developed the Pers Pro Tan tanning process, operated a turkey farm in the community, and was chairman of the Acton Public School Board, member of the Masonic Lodge and North Halton Golf Club, YMCA member, and an Intercollegiate Wrestling Champion (1936). Helen Wolfe, Wesley’s wife, was an active community member and worked raising turkeys and cattle with Wesley, was a member of the Arts and Crafts Guild of Georgetown, the Presto Club in Guelph, the Acton Music Club, the I.O.D.E, and a member of the Acton Women’s Institute. Helen was also a Wolfe Cub leader, member of St. Alban’s Anglican Church, a representative of the Halton County’s Children’s Aid, and a member of the St. Andrew’s College Ladies’ Guild.

The property was also home to long-time owners Donald and Dora Ryder from the 1960s onwards. Both Donald and Dora were WWII veterans who worked for many years at Dills Printing and Publishing (later Metroland Media) and were actively involved community members.

The property at 93 Bower Street has contextual value as it helps to define and maintain the late-nineteenth century and early-twentieth century development of this residential neighbourhood on the periphery of Acton's historic downtown. The residence is physically, functionally, visually, and historically linked to the surroundings in the community along Bower Street. The property is similar in scale and materials to the neighbouring properties and has not been identified as a landmark in the area.
