Purpose of Presentation

- Provide an overview of the current state of X (formerly Twitter)
  - Advise on Bluesky – an emerging social media platform
  - Review the municipal landscape and beyond
  - Present considerations for moving from X to Bluesky

About Bluesky

- Bluesky is a text-based social media platform similar to X
- It aims to provide a decentralized social media experience, giving users more control over their data and how they interact with content
- Officially launched to the public in February 2024 and has grown rapidly, reaching over 30 million users by early 2025
- Users retain ownership of their data, deciding how it's shared and used. This is a significant shift from traditional platforms where the platform typically owns user data

Current Town Platforms

Facebook: Connect with a broad audience, share updates, and engage with our community through posts, comments, and messages. It's a great platform for building brand awareness and fostering a sense of community.

X: Go-to platform for real-time updates, news, and customer service. We use it to share quick updates, engage in conversations, and respond to inquiries promptly.

Instagram: Share visually appealing content. We use it to showcase our products, behind-the-scenes moments, and engage with our audience through stories, posts, and reels.

LinkedIn: Essential for professional networking, recruitment, and building public awareness. We use it to share insights, town news and accomplishments, and connect with businesses in the community.

Current State re: X

- A platform problem in that hate speech and bots are still thriving on X.
- A study conducted in February 2024 and published by Plos One, analyzed posts on X from January 2002 to June 2023, highlighting challenges with hate speech and inauthentic accounts.
- Over this study period, the study found:
  - Hate speech, in general, increased 50%.
  - Some words, such as transphobic slurs, increased 260%.
  - Homophobic tweets rose by 30%.
  - Racist tweets rose by 42%.

Breadth of Issue

- The Canadian Anti-Hate Network (CAHN) is currently taking action.
- CAHN believes that X has become increasingly toxic under Elon Musk, in that the amount of hate online has increased, along with conspiracy theories and disinformation.
- CAHN is encouraging MP's to stop using X.
- A petition is currently circulating to all municipalities urging all elected officials to sign and stop using X.

Authenticity

- There are no blue checkmarks to verify an accounts.
- Fake accounts posing as other people has been a known issue in the wake of Bluesky's popularity spike. In response, the platform updated its impersonation policy in November with a “more aggressive” approach.
- Bluesky labels profiles if they believe they are impersonating someone else such as the former Prime Minister, Justin Trudeau.

The image shows a screenshot of the Bluesky social media interface. On the left, the profile of Justin Trudeau (@justintrudeau0.bsky.social) is visible, with a label indicating 'Impersonation'. In the center, a post from the user StrangeGuy877 (@strangeguy877.bsky.social) is shown, dated Mar 11, 2024 at 5:51 PM. The post is labeled 'Rude' by 'The Chiller'. On the right, a sidebar shows various moderation options like 'Off', 'Warn', and 'Hide' for different content types. A text box at the top right explains: 'Labels are annotations on users and content. They can be used to hide, warn, and categorize the network.'

Bluesky vs. Threads

- Both are trying to be the new X.
- Bluesky is a standalone social network – it allows you to create custom feeds and gives you more control over what you see.
- Threads is an extension of Instagram – if you don't have Instagram then you can't use Threads.
- Neither has any monetization (yet), meaning you cannot boost posts (paid advertising).

As of November 2024,
Bluesky user numbers have overtaken Threads in the US
